Customer Reviews

I actually purchased four different MAT preparation books, and by far this is the worst one. First, the explanation of the MAT and the different questions that you will encounter in the test is not as thorough as the other books. Second, it does not include any sort of material to help you study the variety of subjects covered by the MAT like the other books do. Third, out of twelve practice tests, I have only taken the first one and in that test alone I found four mistakes and typos that they made. That doesn't bode well for the other practice tests. All in all, the other MAT preparation books are a lot better, so there is no use in wasting your money with this product like I did. Kaplan seems to be the best. The REA and McGraw-Hill's are close seconds. Get those; don't get this one.

I really can't rate this book as I changed my mind about graduate school.

There is no real advice and the majority of the book is practice tests. This would be acceptable if the explanations were actually helpful. There is no explanation as to why the other choices are wrong and some of the explanations make no sense. For example, one item is 52:33::25:27 and the explanation is: "52=25 and 33=27." Helpful, huh? Kaplan and Barron's are better choices.
