Just A Game

Synopsis

Huntsville, Ohio is the kind of place young boys dream of growing up. A small town where football players are the top of the social hierarchy and heroes are held in high esteem long after their final game is played. For the past three years, Clay Hendricks has realized that dream unlike few others. As the starting quarterback for the Hornets, he has dated the head cheerleader, been greeted by name everywhere he went and served as the visible leader of the community as a whole. Now, faced with his final game, Clay is forced to actually make peace with the impending conclusion of it all. In doing so, he slowly starts to realize that what he was doing all those years was far greater than just playing quarterback and that the impact football has had on himself, his family, and his community is far greater than being just a game.

Customer Reviews

Love all of Mr. Stevens' books. Doesn't matter if "who done it" or small town hero makes good. He is a great story teller & you always finish his books with a smile or a I'll be darn ending. Mr. Stevens, you keep writing & I'll keep reading anything with your name on it.

You hit it out of the park again. If you come from a small town, whether you're into sports or not, this book is the real deal. This is just like living my last four years of school although I played basketball. Great stuff. Keep up the great writing.

Reminds me of my career playing football in a small town in Nebraska. Same small town attitude and enthusiasm. My team members and I meet every five years to reminisce and try to relive just as the author does in this book. Although my brothers were much younger they too had the same experiences.

An introspective approach to the senior HS year and the final game. Quite a mature outlook. Wish I had been so insightful my senior year.

Another winner for Dustin Stevens. This book conveyed the teamwork, fears, loves, trials of athletes. Dustin you are to be commended on this book. If I was still coaching it would be required reading.

It was a window into high school football that I never would have experienced had I not read this book.

Another Dustin Stevens winner! Highly suspenseful and captivating.

Another great book with complications outside the game. Keep it up Dustin.
