Johnny Molloy is an outdoor writer based in Tennessee. He has averaged over one hundred nights in the wild per year since the early 1980s, backpacking and canoe camping throughout the country, in nearly every state. The result of his efforts are numerous books, including hiking guides to Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee as well as tent camping guides to Colorado, Wisconsin, Tennessee, the Carolinas, Georgia, and the Smokies. He continues to write and travel extensively to all four corners of the United States, endeavoring in a variety of outdoor pursuits. For the latest on Molloy, visit www.johnnymolloy.com.

This Falcon Guide to hiking the greater Richmond area is short, well-done, and to the point. Many hikes listed here are NOT present in some other Virginia hiking books which I own (e.g. 'The Trails of Virginia'). Molloy has done a nice job finding some rural escapes in the area as well as some urban gems (the floodwall hike!). The actual hike instructions are easy to follow and the book is physically small enough to bring along. The only downside is that only two or three hikes are 3+ miles. Recommended!

Good guide!
