Foundations: Their Power And Influence

Synopsis

This is a searching analysis of some of America's most powerful tax-exempt foundations, their actions as opposed to their stated purpose's, the interlocking groups of men who run them, and their influence on the country at large. The author, as counsel to the Reece Committee, which investigated foundations for the last Republican Congress, gained a unique insight into the inner workings of the various Rockefeller, Carnegie and Ford-created giants. He also witnessed the intense and powerful opposition to any investigation of these multi-billion-dollar public trusts. The Reece investigation was virtually hamstrung from the start to its early demise, which was aided and abetted by leading newspaper of the country. "It is difficult for the public to understand," writes Mr. Wormser, "that some of the great foundations which have done so much for us in some fields have acted tragically against the public interest in others, but the facts are there for the unprejudiced to recognize." "The power of the individual foundation giant is enormous. When there is like-mindedness among a group of these giants, which apparently is due to the existence of a closely knit group of professional administrators in the social science field, the power is magnified hugely. When such foundations do good, they justify the tax-exempt status which the people grant them. When they do harm, it can be immense harm - there is virtually no counter-force to oppose them."

If you want to find out how the spreading of Socialism and Communism happened in America, it started way back in the 1920's, possibly earlier. Goes into the big foundations and how they have helped to corrupt science, schools, the government and more. I had heard about the Reece commission, but wow! I'm not finished reading it, but I'm surprised it was left to go until it got to this point. Mr. Wormser did a great job with the documents. It's a who's who of corruption, from Rockefeller, Carnegie and the Ford foundations to name a few. If you want to find out why and how we got here, this is the book. Great for both conservatives and progressives.

This book does a great job of revealing that many foundations you've been led to believe are benevolent and impartial are actually deliberately used to reinforce the elitist power structure. It outlines the methods the ruling elite use foundations for; to covertly influence/dominate public policy and to recruit new generations of loyal elites to continue their work. After seeing the true nature of foundations I no longer trust any of them without researching them first. Another related book is Age of Propaganda which reveals many of the techniques used by the system to control the way you think and behave. The word propaganda is commonly only associated with military campaigns; it is usually called advertising or news in day-to-day society.

This is a good follow up to the Norman Dodd Interviews on youtube. Wormser relays a lot of good information, but attempts to mollify the sharp conclusions of Norman Dodd. Still a must have for the library on the egregious workings of the tax exempt Foundations.

Another reason why America has been sliding left for so many years. Appalled to learn how tax-exempt foundations take public funds with no accountability for indoctrination and subversion. Is the damage beyond repair?

Before I begin I would like to say how astonished I am at the lack of reviews for this tremendously important scholarly work. This book not only demands importance due to its strict adherence to truthful and factual documentation, but is absolutely essential for understanding why American society is in the shape it is in politically, as-well as economically. With that said, a book of similar importance, Tragedy and Hope by Carroll Quigley, very important in its own right, nonetheless has more reviews despite being drastically shadowed by this book in an absolute sense. The book is a documentation of the findings from the 82nd Congressionally appointed committee nicknamed, "The Reece Committee," which was given the task of investigating tax-exempt foundations; of prime significance the Ford, Rockefeller, and Carnegie respectively. In a more refined sense, the committee was instructed to the investigation of what significance, if any, were the foundations using their resources for "un-American and subversive activities; for political purposes; propaganda, or attempts to influence legislation." The results and findings lay inside this highly important work. Consequently, one must keep in mind that the book itself was not written by the committee; but rather by Rene A. Wormser, who acted as Counsel of the committee during its lifetime. However this does not in any way take away from the truthfulness of the findings. Wormser adheres strictly to the facts of what the committee mined out of Americas dark past and at that time, present. Also the chair of the committee, Carroll Reece, writes the preface in which he testifies to the objectivity of the book. Overall, highly recommended if you can handle the truth.

Im still reading it

This is the book of the life-time. This book reveals the foundations that the elite are using that are not in the best interest of the citizens of the united states, a major major piece of work, this is a RARE, HARD TO FIND book that was suppressed by the establishment, once you read it you will understand why, the corrupt bought and paid for media will never write or report like this book divulges, this is the book,,,,, Details, Detail, Details. This book preserves and publishes for all to see the details of the nasty business of America's Tax Exempt Foundations and their role in undermining the Constitution, Morality, and Individualism... A clear illustration of the axiom: "The LOVE on money is the root of all evil," and; "Power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts, absolutely."
